

The Revd Adrian Morton

Adrian was born in Singapore, grew up in North Wales and has parents who come from Yorkshire. He became a Christian at 24 in a village Anglican church in Norfolk that was undergoing a charismatic renewal. Being educated and trained as an Electronic Engineer Adrian worked for BT's research & development arm in Suffolk, during which he felt the call to ordination. Leaving BT he spent 2 years at Ridley Hall theological college before working as an assistant curate at Christ the King in Kettering. Throughout his Christian life, he has been influenced by the New Wine movement, Elim's River Camp festival, Bethel church in Redding California and more recently David's Tent.

For the past 21 years Adrian and his wife Louise have led a four church Benefice in the heart of Northamptonshire. They enjoy leading together and feel their gifts compliment each other. They both have a passion to see people encounter the presence of God, be transformed by Him and to see people increasingly bring kingdom influence to wherever God has called them to be. They also have a heart for church to be a family of all ages; at their last Easter Day service where a number of adults and young people were baptised, a visitor described the service as "beautiful chaos".

They have 3 grown up children, two grand children, and for the last 8 years have fostered a number of young people. Adrian loves sport, in particular cricket, football and golf. He also has a weakness for fast cars and motorbikes. Louise prefers dogs and gardening. As a couple they love to walk together in places of beauty, listen to live music and go out for nice meals.
