Fr Peter Das

Fr Peter Das has served in the Diocese of Sheffield for the past three years, most recently serving his title at Doncaster Minster.

Raised in India as the youngest of three siblings, he read History at St Stephen's College, Delhi, where he first discerned a vocation to Holy Orders whilst serving for three years as a chapel clerk. His developing interest in theology brought him to the University of Durham, where he pursued postgraduate study in theology with a focus on early seventeenth-century Laudianism. During this time, he was actively involved in college chaplaincy, whilst working part-time at Durham Cathedral, and discerning his calling with the Diocese of Durham.

Fr Peter later trained for ordination at Westcott House, Cambridge. He was then ordained to serve in the Diocese of Sheffield, ministering for two years in suburban Sheffield and completing his curacy at Doncaster Minster where he gained valuable experience in a vibrant city centre, multi-cultural, and civic context during a period of interregnum.

Alongside his parish ministry, Fr Peter has contributed to a range of diocesan committees and national bodies, including the Cathedrals Fabric Commission for England, over the past three years. Outside ministry, Fr Peter enjoys reading, painting, music, and is currently venturing bravely into the unpredictable world of baking with results that are, by his own admission, still a work in progress. Reflecting on his new appointment, Fr Peter says:

"I am grateful to have been invited by the Acting Bishop of Lincoln to serve my first incumbency among the parish communities of Grantham. I believe this appointment accords with my sense of vocation at this stage of my ministry, and I look forward to sharing in the cure of souls with Fr Stuart with gratitude and joy."
